National School Lunch Week:
October 10—14, 2022

Every second week of October, school districts throughout the U.S. celebrate the important role school lunch programs play in nourishing students with National School Lunch Week. During this week, schools encourage participation in the school meal programs by coordinating special menus, activities, nutrition education opportunities and more.

The National School Lunch Week Toolkit was created by Dairy Council of California for the Let’s Eat Healthy Initiative to help schools raise awareness of the nutritional quality of school meals by informing families, teachers and administrators about the benefits of participation. Through shared values, the Let’s Eat Healthy Initiative elevates the health of children and families in the pursuit of lifelong healthy eating habits.

Sample Social Media Posts

- We know kids need healthy food to grow, learn and play! During National School Lunch Week, we celebrate the (School/District) nutrition team for providing free nutritious and delicious lunches each school day to our students. Visit HealthyEating.org/NSLW to learn more!

- Happy National School Lunch Week! Did you know research shows students are receiving their healthiest meals at school? Each day (School/District) offers healthy foods, like fruits, vegetables, whole grains, lean proteins and milk and dairy foods, making a positive impact on students in and out of the classroom.
